CONTRACTOR/ Physio-Control, Inc.

CONTRACT NO.: PC60006

SUBJECT: UPDATE REGARDING VOLUNTARY SUSPENSION of US SHIPMENTS of LIFEPAK
EXTERNAL DEFIBRILLATORS and CERTAIN ASSOCIATED PRODUCTS

UPDATE OF PURCHASING MEMORANDUM DATED JANUARY 25, 2007

ALL STATE AGENCIES AND OTHERS AUTHORIZED TO USE STATE CONTRACTS:

The Contractor for PC60006, Physio-Control, Inc. has issued the following statement on May 5, 2008:

Dear Customers and Partners of Physio-Control:

We have received a number of inquiries over the past few days from customers who have read in the press that Physio-Control is "permanently enjoined" or "prohibited from shipping products." I want to provide a clear description of our situation to avoid any potential confusion.

Physio-Control has signed an agreement with the FDA called a consent decree, which is a legal document filed with the court. To initiate the legal process, the FDA filed a complaint and, at the same time, filed the agreement we reached to settle the issues raised in the complaint. The agency also issued a press release about the consent decree. In all of these documents, the FDA uses language such as "permanent injunction" and "the consent decree prohibits the manufacture, distribution and export of specified AEDs...". These restrictions are in place until Physio-Control satisfies various requirements outlined in the consent decree. Significantly, these restrictions do not apply in certain circumstances. In fact, the consent decree includes very specific language which allows Physio-Control to manufacture and ship products for customers globally under limited and specific conditions.

To be specific, the section of the decree which imposes a "permanent injunction" on Physio-Control is paragraph 4. It states that the injunction will be in effect until the requirements listed in sections A through F of paragraph 4 have been satisfied. We have already completed many of these requirements and are working with the FDA to expedite the completion of the others. Significantly, the injunction in Paragraph 4 is qualified in Paragraph 5 of the consent decree which begins "paragraph 4 shall NOT apply to" and then lists the exceptions over the next five pages of the document. The consent decree will be publicly available as soon as it is entered with the court.

In summary, Physio-Control is clearly permitted to manufacture and ship a limited amount of product for emergency providers under certain conditions according to the consent decree, a document signed by both Physio-Control and the FDA. I assure you that the decree also allows for Physio-Control to provide disposables, accessories and service to our customers globally.

We are pleased to reach this stage of the process with the FDA, as it prescribes a formal process for the remaining actions that need to be taken for us to resume unrestricted shipping. The best people in our company are working full-time on the additional improvements to our quality system as their top priority.

At Physio-Control, there is nothing more important to us right now than clear communication with our customers. Please don't hesitate to contact me if you have questions.

Sincerely,

Brian Webster, President
Physio-Control, Inc.

We will keep you informed of any further developments.

All other terms and conditions remain the same.

Please contact the Purchasing Officer above if you should have any questions.

CONTRACTOR/ National Instruction for Cardiovascular Education (d/b/a N.I.C.E.)
CONTRACT NO.: PC60008 WBE

SUBJECT: WORLDWIDE VOLUNTARY RECALL

ALL STATE AGENCIES AND OTHERS AUTHORIZED TO USE STATE CONTRACTS:

The contractor for PC 60008 WBE, National Instruction for Cardiovascular Education (N.I.C.E.), has issued the following information regarding a voluntary recall.

Defibtech Announces a Worldwide Voluntary Recall of Lifeline and ReviveR Automated External Defibrillators

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE – Guilford, CT -- March 6, 2007 – Defibtech, LLC, is initiating a voluntary worldwide recall of the Lifeline AED[®] and ReviveR AED[™] (semi-automatic external defibrillators). This recall affects all Lifeline and ReviveR AEDs with software versions 2.002 and earlier. The self-test software for these devices may allow a self-test to clear a previously detected low battery condition. If this situation occurs, the operator may be unaware of the low battery, and the device may be unable to deliver a defibrillation shock, which could result in failure to resuscitate a patient.

Defibtech initiated notification of its distributors and customers by letter on February 22, 2007. Defibtech determined the need for this recall after learning of three reports of malfunctions from end users. The company has provided a maintenance procedure that can be used to verify functionality of the device until the software upgrade has been installed, allowing the device to remain in service. A copy of this maintenance procedure is being mailed to customers. This procedure, as well as instructions on determining the software version of a unit, can be found on the www.defibtech.com/fa2007 web page. For questions regarding this recall, please refer to the above referenced web page, contact your distributor or contact Defibtech at techsupport@defibtech.com, 1-877-453-4507 or 1-203-453-4507.

Defibtech will provide customers with a free software upgrade to address this issue for all affected AEDs. This software upgrade will be able to be installed in the field where the unit is located. The software upgrade is expected to be available within the next 10 weeks.

Defibtech has distributed approximately 42,000 units worldwide through distributors to end users including: schools, fire & EMS, businesses, health clubs and hospitality companies. The products can be identified by the words “Lifeline AED®” and “ReviveR AED™” on the front of the device.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has determined that this action is a Class I recall. Class I recalls are the most serious type of recall and involve situations in which there is a reasonable probability that, should this particular malfunction occur, use of the affected product may cause serious injury or death if the problem is not corrected. Any adverse reactions experienced with the use of this product and/or quality problems should also be reported to the FDA's MedWatch Program by phone at 1-800-FDA-1088, by FAX at 1-800-FDA-0178, by mail at MedWatch, HF-2, FDA, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20852-9787, or on the MedWatch website at www.fda.gov/medwatch.

Corrective Field Action- Distributor Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

Summary:

- While this action is classified by the FDA as a recall, it is specifically a ‘field correction,’ meaning that AEDs can be upgraded in the field without having to ship the AEDs back or take them out of service.
- AEDs do not need to be taken from their field location to implement this upgrade.
- While this field action is necessary for all Defibtech AEDs with software version 2.002 and earlier, the potential issue applies only to units with battery packs near end-of-life.
- A free software upgrade card will be made available to all customers to correct the problem.
- Until the software upgrade is available customers can ensure that their unit is rescue ready by performing a manual self-test as described in the customer notification letter.
- Once the software upgrade is available customers will be able to easily and quickly upgrade their AED where it is located.
- Distributors must choose one of three field corrective responsibility options offered:
 - Option A – Distributor manages field software upgrade;
 - Option B – Defibtech manages the field software upgrade;
 - Option C – Defibtech and Distributor share the field software upgrade responsibility.
- Information relating to this field action can be found at www.defibtech.com/fa2007

What is the problem?

The AED software (version 2.002 and earlier), under some conditions, detects a low battery, but then mistakenly clears the low battery warning.

Why is this an issue?

The AED's active status indicator (ASI) light can flash green and the voice prompt will report a battery pack 'OK' when the rescue battery is actually low or depleted. If the battery is low or depleted the unit may not be able to provide enough power to deliver a shock during a rescue.

What is Defibtech doing about this?

We are implementing a field corrective action. This means that we are releasing a mandatory software upgrade that must be applied to all Defibtech AEDs software version 2.002 and earlier. This applies to all Defibtech AEDs that were shipped before February 15, 2007. This upgrade can be performed in the field where the AED is currently located.

Is this a recall?

Specifically, this is a "field corrective action" which means that AEDs can be upgraded in the field without having to ship the AEDs back. However, the FDA still classifies this as a type of recall.

What is meant by a "field corrective action"?

A field corrective action means that the correction to the device can be made in the field where the unit is located. This issue will be corrected by doing a simple software upgrade to the unit where it is located.

Is this Defibtech's first corrective field action or recall?

Yes, this is Defibtech's first corrective field action. Defibtech has been in business since 1999.

Is Defibtech the only AED manufacturer with a corrective field action or recall?

No, all other defibrillator manufacturers have had numerous corrective actions or recalls. For example, last year there were at least 11 recalls for external defibrillators by other manufacturers. This is Defibtech's first corrective action. To view a list of industry recalls, please visit <http://info.rasmas.mitretek.org/AED1.html>.

Did the FDA make you do this?

No. Defibtech discovered this issue and decided on its own to voluntarily institute this action. We have told the FDA about it and we are working with them to ensure that the issue is corrected.

Is Defibtech issuing a Press Release announcing this field action?

Yes, Defibtech has issued a press release to publicly announce this field action.

Does this mean your customer's AED won't work properly?

No. This issue just affects how the software detects a low battery condition. If the battery is not depleted the unit will function normally. Until your customers unit is upgraded, customers should follow the recommended maintenance procedure found in the customer notification letter and on www.defibtech.com/fa2007.

How do customers know if their battery is ok?

The new software upgrade will correct the issue. Until then, customers can ensure that their battery pack is rescue ready by performing a manual self-test as described in the customer notification letter.

Do customers have to take their AED out of service?

No. Until the software upgrade is available, customers should perform the manual self-test as described in the customer notification letter to ensure that their AED is rescue-ready.

What if the manual self-test shows that the battery is low, and the voice prompt recommends replacing the battery pack?

If the manual self-test shows that the battery is low, and the voice prompt recommends replacing the battery pack, then the battery pack should be replaced (stock # DCF-200 for 5-year battery pack or DCF-210 for seven-year battery pack).

What is my distributor responsibility to communicate this field action to my customers? What is my responsibility to facilitate this field action for my customers?

You must provide Defibtech with your latest tracking data for units sold to customers. Defibtech will directly mail a notification to your customers after you supply us with this information.

When the software upgrade is available, you will have the option of handling your customers' upgrades directly or Defibtech will do it for you. The Software Upgrade Responsibility Document lists three field corrective options offered to distributors:

- Option A – Distributor manages field software upgrade;
- Option B – Defibtech manages the field software upgrade;
- Option C – Defibtech and Distributor share the field software upgrade responsibility;

When will the software upgrade be available?

Defibtech is targeting to have upgrade cards available to distributors (to upgrade their own AEDs, as well as customer AEDs if they choose to facilitate their customer upgrades themselves) in late March or April. Of course, this schedule may change due to unforeseen circumstances.

How long will it take to upgrade an AED?

The actual upgrade process is quite simple and can be done in less than five minutes at the location where the AED is located.

Does this mean my battery is bad?

No. This issue applies to the software in the unit that detects that the battery is low.

Is this covered by the battery warranty?

No. This action relates to the software detecting that the battery is low. The battery can become low for all kinds of reasons: actual unit use, demonstration use of the unit, frequent manual testing, normal battery aging, etc. If there is an actual defect in the battery within three years, that would be covered under the battery warranty.

Does this mean that Defibtech AED batteries do not really last five years (or seven years for the DCF-210) as marketed?

No. This is a software issue that causes the software to indicate that the battery is low when it actually has capacity left in it.

How do I know what software version I currently have?

To determine the software version of a unit, turn the unit on, wait until the unit begins speaking, and then press and hold the on/off button for approximately five seconds until the unit begins speaking again. Prior to automatically turning itself off, the unit will speak the version number; if the unit does not speak a version number, the software version is 1.201.

Do I have to do anything to get the new software?

No. Defibtech will provide you with new upgrade software cards when they are available.

How will the software get to customers?

If you choose not to handle your customer upgrades, Defibtech will send each customer a software upgrade package with instructions, an upgrade data card and an upgrade reply card to fill out and return.

What has to be done to upgrade the unit?

The data card must be inserted in the unit and the upgrade procedure must be run according to the instructions. The whole process will take less than five minutes. Then the serial number must be recorded on the reply card. Anyone upgrading their AED, be it a distributor or an end-customer, must then mail back the data card and the reply card in the supplied prepaid envelope.

Can I call Defibtech to help me with my upgrade?

Yes. You or your customers can call Defibtech at 1-877-453-4507, 8:30 A.M. – 5:30 P.M. (Eastern), Monday-Friday. Defibtech customer service representatives will gladly guide you through the process over the phone.

I have more than one unit; do I need an upgrade card for each unit?

No. Each data card can be used to upgrade up to 50 units.

How many AED upgrade software cards will I get if I choose to facilitate the upgrade process myself with my customers (Option A)?

Your Defibtech Account Manager will work with you to send you the appropriate number of cards so that your customer AEDs can be upgraded.

My address has changed; what should I do?

Please fax your new address and a list of AED serial numbers that you control to 203-738-1072.

What AHA protocol will be in the new software?

The new software upgrade will automatically bring the upgraded unit up to the latest 2005 AHA rescue protocol for free.

Will I have to do this for new units I buy?

No. All units being shipped from now on from the Defibtech factory will already have the new software installed.

When should I expect to receive the current AED order(s) I already placed with Defibtech but have not yet received?

Defibtech expects to be shipping current AED orders in our system between March 15-April 1, 2007. Of course, this schedule may change due to unforeseen circumstances.

What is the expected lead time for AED orders that I place today?

Expect that new AED orders you place today or over the next few weeks will ship between April 1 - April 15. Of course, this schedule may change due to unforeseen circumstances.

Does this action affect AED accessories?

No, this field action does not affect Defibtech AED accessories, and orders can be placed for accessories as normal through orders@defibtech.com or via fax at 203-738-1026.

Should I still continue promoting Defibtech AED sales to my customers during this field action process?

YES, Defibtech expects to be shipping AEDs and have the software upgrade complete and ready for mailing to existing AED customers soon. By all means continue your Defibtech AED marketing efforts as you would normally. As usual, please let your Defibtech Account Manager or Defibtech Customer Service know if we can assist you in any way to better serve your customers.

DEFIBRILLATORS and CERTAIN ASSOCIATED PRODUCTS

ALL STATE AGENCIES AND OTHERS AUTHORIZED TO USE STATE CONTRACTS:

The contractor for PC60006, Physio-Control, Inc., has issued the following statement on January 16, 2007:

Dear Customer,

We are writing to notify you that Physio-Control, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Medtronic, Inc., has initiated a voluntary suspension of U.S. shipments of LIFEPAK external defibrillators and certain associated products manufactured at its facility in Redmond, WA. The decision to suspend U.S. product shipments was made to address issues identified in Physio-Control's quality system that were identified by Physio-Control, Medtronic and the FDA. This action is not directly related to a specific product issue and does not impact Physio-Control products currently in use worldwide. We have informed the FDA of our decision and intend to work with them to address these issues so that these products can be returned to the market.

Physio-Control continues to be committed to providing the highest quality products into the marketplace. We are confident this voluntary action will allow us to focus the appropriate resources on rectifying these issues to ensure we produce utmost quality products.

You are a valued customer. You can expect Physio-Control to provide responsive customer service and be the partner you have come to rely on. During this suspension of shipments Physio-Control will continue to service, repair and provide disposables to our installed base of external defibrillator products.

Please contact your local sales and/or service representative with inquiries and for additional information.

Sincerely,

Brian Webster, President

CONTRACTOR/

CONTRACT NO.: Guidant Sales Corporation, Inc./PC60597

SUBJECT: FDA RECALL AND UPDATES

TO ALL STATE AGENCIES AND OTHERS AUTHORIZED TO USE STATE CONTRACTS:

We suggest you attach this memorandum with the following FDA notice to the front of your contract award.

FDA Announces Guidant's Class I Pacemaker Recall

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is notifying health care providers and patients that Guidant Corporation is voluntarily recalling certain pacemakers. A seal within the devices can leak, allowing moisture to affect the electronic circuits. This defect can cause the pacemakers to fail to provide pacing or can cause a rapid heart rate. Other unexpected device behaviors are also possible. The problems may occur without warning and can lead to loss of consciousness, and possibly heart failure and death.

Only the following models are affected by this recall. All were manufactured between November 25, 1997 and October 26, 2000.

- PULSAR® MAX Models 1170, 1171, 1270
- PULSAR Models 0470, 0870, 0970, 0972, 1172, 1272
- DISCOVERY® Models 1174, 1175, 1273, 1274, 1275
- MERIDIAN® Models 0476, 0976, 1176, 1276
- PULSAR MAX II Models 1180, 1181, 1280
- DISCOVERY II Models 0481, 0981, 1184, 1186, 1187, 1283, 1284, 1285, 1286
- CONTAK TR® Model 1241

Guidant announced the initiation of a voluntary recall on July 18, 2005. The recall action consisted of a letter to physicians that describes the problem and provides recommendations about how to minimize the risk of pacemaker failure. These products, which are of an earlier generation design, have not been sold or implanted for the last four years.

Guidant has determined that a hermetic sealing component used in the subset of devices listed above may experience a gradual degradation, resulting in a higher than normal moisture content within the pacemaker case late in the device's service life.

The FDA has classified Guidant's action as a Class I recall. Recall classifications can fall into one of three categories, with Class I being the most serious. These numerical classifications are based on the probability that the device failure could lead to adverse health effects. In a Class I recall, there is a reasonable probability that the malfunctioning device will cause serious adverse health consequences or death.

The FDA concurs with Guidant's proposed recommendation to patients.

- If you believe you are pacemaker dependent, contact your physician soon to discuss your treatment options.
- Continue your normal doctor appointments.
- If you experience symptoms of shortness of breath, dizziness, lightheadedness, loss of consciousness, or a prolonged fast heart rate, you should consult with your physician or go to the emergency room immediately.
- If you are not sure which model you have, or if you have other questions regarding your device, you should consult with your physician.
- If you know your device's model and serial number and want to find out if it is affected by the leakage problem, you can check www.guidant.com/webapp/emarketing/lookup.jsp or contact Guidant Technical Services at 1-866-GUIDANT (1-866-484-3268).

If you are a physician or a patient who has experienced a problem with any of these pacemakers, please send a report to FDA's MedWatch program and to Guidant. See <http://www.fda.gov/medwatch/> for filing information or call 1-800-FDA-1088 (1-800-332-1088).

FDA Updates Consumers on Guidant Corporation's Implantable Defibrillators

As the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) continues to evaluate the safety and performance of certain implantable defibrillators manufactured by Guidant Corporation, the Agency has now classified the recalled devices. This additional information on the relative health risks of the devices will help patients and doctors take appropriate action, if necessary.

Classifications can fall into three categories, with Class I being the most serious. These numerical classifications are based on the probability that the device failure could lead to adverse health effects.

Below is a full list of the 11 devices affected by this recall classification.

PRIZM 2 DR, CONTAK RENEWAL, and CONTAK RENEWAL 2 Devices- Class I

The affected devices are:

- PRIZM 2 DR, Model 1861, manufactured on or before April 16, 2002
- CONTAK RENEWAL, Model H135, manufactured on or before August 26, 2004
- CONTAK RENEWAL 2, Model H155, manufactured on or before August 26, 2004

VENTAK PRIZM AVT, VITALITY AVT, and RENEWAL AVT Devices- Class II

FDA has classified the previous actions taken by Guidant for these devices as a Class II recall. For a Class II recall, the malfunctioning product may cause temporary or medically reversible adverse health consequences, however the probability of serious adverse health consequences is remote.

These Guidant devices are subject to a memory error which, in rare cases, may limit available therapy. Of the 21,000 devices implanted worldwide (18,000 in the U.S.), two incidents have been confirmed, neither of which resulted in death or injury. The defect can be detected by medical evaluation of the device and Guidant is recommending the device be reprogrammed during the patient’s next doctor visit. Guidant is developing an additional non-invasive software solution for this problem, which is expected by the end of the year.

CONTAK RENEWAL 3 and 4, RENEWAL 3 and 4 AVT, and RENEWAL RF Devices- Class II

FDA has classified the previous actions taken by Guidant regarding these devices as a Class II recall.

These devices are subject to a component failure that in rare cases may limit available therapy. A magnetic switch in these devices may become stuck in the closed position, which in some cases inhibits the device’s ability to treat ventricular or atrial tachyarrhythmias (abnormally fast heart rhythms) and also accelerates battery depletion. Four occurrences have been confirmed out of approximately 46,000 devices; a fifth occurrence is suspected but cannot be confirmed. In the four confirmed cases, patients and/or physicians were alerted to the condition by audible device tones signaling that the magnetic switch was closed. Based on this information, it is important that patients who hear tones from their device immediately contact their physician or go to the hospital emergency room.

As a precautionary measure, Guidant has recommended that physicians discontinue implanting these devices until further notice. For devices already implanted, Guidant has recommended that physicians change “Enable Magnet Use” to “OFF.” This will ensure appropriate therapy to treat the patient’s abnormally fast heart rhythm.

FDA requests that physicians support Guidant’s efforts to acquire additional information about the performance of these devices. Specifically, FDA asks doctors to test these devices at the time they are no longer in service and if possible to return the devices to the manufacturer for analysis.

If you are a physician or a patient who has experienced a problem with any of the affected defibrillator models, please send a report to FDA’s MedWatch program and to Guidant. See <<http://www.fda.gov/medwatch/index.html>> for filing information or call 1-800-FDA-1088 (1-800-332-1088).

Additional information about this potential issue is available for physicians and patients at 1-866-GUIDANT (1-866-484-3268) (24/7) and http://www.guidant.com/physician_communications/PDM.pdf

CONTRACTOR: Medtronic Emergency
Response Systems

CONTRACT NO.: PC60006

SUBJECT: VOLUNTARY RECALL

TO ALL STATE AGENCIES AND OTHERS AUTHORIZED TO USE STATE CONTRACTS:

Medtronic, Inc. has announced that it is voluntarily recalling a limited number of LIFEPAK® 500 automated external defibrillators (AEDs). Only certain monophasic LIFEPAK 500 AEDs manufactured in 1997 are included in this action. The FDA has been apprised of this action. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) classified this action as a Class I recall. The FDA defines Class I as a situation in which there is reasonable probability that the use of or exposure to the product will cause serious adverse health consequences or death.

The AED may continue to display a "connect electrodes" message and may not analyze the patient's heart rhythm even when the electrodes are properly connected. Failure to analyze the patient's heart rhythm will inhibit defibrillation, if it is needed. This action affects first-generation LIFEPAK 500 AEDs that were manufactured in 1997, which represents approximately 1 percent of LIFEPAK 500 AEDs currently in use worldwide. This action does not affect any other LIFEPAK 500 AEDs currently produced, or any other LIFEPAK product.

You may enter serial numbers from your devices into the search engine at the following website to determine if your device(s) is included in this action. (<http://www.medtronic-ers.com/500/>). You may also call 1-877-873-7630 to determine if your device is included in the action. Attached is a .pdf file with a list of serial numbers.

Medtronic has received 54 incident reports with this specific group of LIFEPAK 500 AEDs, including eight instances where it may have prevented patient resuscitation, which corresponds to less than 1 percent of patient uses. In addition, a recently completed theoretical engineering analysis estimates that this issue may occur on up to 8 percent of patients.

Medtronic began distributing notices via certified mail on Feb. 3, 2005, to customers who purchased AEDs in this group of devices. The company will update or upgrade their device at no charge by May 31, 2005. The affected AEDs may remain in service and customers are currently being contacted with recommendations for use and replacement schedules.

CONTRACTOR: Access Cardio Systems, Inc.

SUBJECT: Urgent FDA Recall

TO ALL STATE AGENCIES AND OTHERS AUTHORIZED TO USE STATE CONTRACTS:

Access Cardiosystems, Inc. Issues a Worldwide Recall of Automated External Defibrillators (AED'S)

The Office of General Services is pursuing information regarding any recourse available for contract users who may have acquired the recalled products and are getting no response from the company. We ask that any contract user who has acquired such products please contact this office so we may keep you informed about future developments. No new orders should be placed with this company.

The following information in italics was received as part of the notice from Access Cardiosystems regarding the FDA recall.

Contact: Recall Coordinator - 1-978-405-1057

Access CardioSystems, Inc., Concord, Massachusetts, initiated a voluntary recall of all of its Automated External Defibrillators (AED's). Additionally, it appears the Company is no longer doing business.

We have identified two potential problems with certain AED's that warrant your immediate attention:

1. Potential Failure of the Shock Delivery Circuit:

The Company is aware of a situation involving certain of its AEDs in which the device may experience a catastrophic failure of the shock delivery circuit. The Company's investigation indicates to date that this failure mode is restricted to a specific batch of one device component. To date, the company has received 11 complaints of this occurrence in devices containing the component shown to be associated with this failure mode (representing a 0.8% complaint rate within the affected units). When this potential problem occurs, it is not possible to deliver additional defibrillation shocks.

Although the investigation of this issue is still ongoing, the Company has determined that AEDs with the following serial numbers may have this problem: 075690 - 077140.

2. Potential of the AED to Turn on Unexpectedly:

The Company is aware of a situation involving certain of its AEDs in which the "ON/OFF" button of the device may become inoperative after the device turns on unexpectedly. The Company's investigation indicates to date that this failure mode is related to a specific manufacturer of a specific device component. To date, the Company has received 33 complaints of this occurrence in devices containing the component (representing a 0.3% complaint rate within the affected units), none of which have involved a patient treatment. If this potential problem occurs, the device may not defibrillate.

Although the investigation of this issue is still ongoing, the Company has determined that AEDs with the following serial numbers may have this problem: 075180 - 084760.

USERS ARE ADVISED TO IMMEDIATELY DISCONTINUE USE OF AND TO REMOVE FROM SERVICE ACCESS CARDIOSYSTEMS AED DEVICES WITH THE ABOVE REFERENCED CATALOG AND SERIAL NUMBERS: 075690 - 077140 OR 075180 - 084760.

The Company discontinued manufacturing and marketing ALL models of its AEDs and discontinued supporting its AEDs that are currently in service. The Company cannot accept orders for new AEDs, for consumable components (specifically disposable battery packs and electrode sets) used with its AEDs, and cannot service, repair or answer technical questions for existing AEDs.

For units not affected by the recall Access Cardiosystems is no longer accepting orders for disposable parts used with our AEDs. Therefore, when your supply of disposable parts is depleted, please immediately discontinue use of and remove from service all of the Company's AEDs that you have in your possession. Customers should consider replacing the AED's as soon as possible. It is your responsibility to equip yourself with AEDs that meet your medical needs. Access CardioSystems, Inc. has notified affected customers on November 3, 2004 by registered mail return receipt requested mail. All interested parties with any questions should contact the Recall Coordinator at 1 978 405-1057. In order to obtain the most updated information you may e-mail the Company at recall@accesscardiosystems.com or visit the Company's website at accesscardiosystems.com.

This recall is being conducted with the knowledge of the US Food & Drug Administration.

The OGS Procurement Services Group asks that anyone who purchased AED's from the company, please contact Ms. Donna McNeil by email at donna.mcneil@ogs.state.ny.us.

We will pass more information to our contract users as soon as it is made available.
